

REPULSE OF ATTACKS REPORTED BY BERLIN

Russian War Office Claims
Steady Advance On Frontier of Galicia

DISORDER IN COMMONS

French Advance In Somme Sector; Italian Aircraft Bombards
Durazzo In Albania

BERLIN, July 27.—The repulse of British, French and Russian attacks was reported in the official statement of the German war office today.

On the Somme front the British attacks made with hand grenades west of Pozieres failed to gain any ground.

South of the Somme the French attacked northeast of Barleux, but were repelled.

On the eastern front Russian attacks on the Schitschara river, south of Baranovitch and Beresteczko, on the Galician border, broke down.

PETROGRAD, July 27.—Further advances for the Russians on the northwestern frontier of Galicia was reported by the Russian war office today. It is announced that, in Tuesday's battle 128 Austro-German officers and 6,250 men were captured.

The official report follows:

"In the sector of the Sloniewka the fight for river crossings continues.

"In the region of Boldurovka we have advanced at some points.

"In Tuesday's battle we captured 128 officers, 6,250 men, five guns and 22 machine guns."

LONDON, July 27.—Disorder became so great in the house of commons that the sitting had to be suspended. The tumult was precipitated by Lawrence Ginnell, an Irish nationalist member who started the uproar by shouting criticism of the government over its conduct in the Irish situation. Ginnell was ordered to withdraw from the chamber for disorderly conduct and was ordered suspended from service in the house but refused to leave.

Pandemonium followed in which the speaker could not make himself heard.

It was then that the sitting was suspended.

During the suspension the sergeant-at-arms, accompanied by four attendants, approached Ginnell with the evident intention of ejecting him by force.

At this juncture A. A. Lynch, another Irish nationalist and others intervened and after some argument persuaded Ginnell to leave peacefully. The session was then resumed.

ROME, July 27.—A squadron of Italian aircraft after a long fight across the Adriatic, bombarded the Albanian port of Durazzo which is now held by the Austro-Hungarians. It was officially announced today. Aeroplane hangars and the harbor works were shelled.

FRENCH ADVANCE ON SOMME
Activity Resumed on Ancre River by Allies and Teutons.

PARIS, July 27.—Progress for the French on the Somme front and also in the sector of Verdun was reported by the war office today. The communiqué states that the Germans attacked north of the Aisne and also delivered a strong assault in Champagne but were repulsed in both places.

On the Somme front the ground gained was south of the river. At Verdun the French made an attack with hand grenades west of Thiaumont which enabled them to move forward their positions. There was a violent artillery duel last night all along the Verdun front on both sides of the Meuse river.

LONDON, July 27.—There was strong artillery activity last night by the Somme and Ancre rivers by both British and German guns. The war office in its official report issued early this afternoon state that the British forces on the Somme front are continuing pressing back the Germans at various points.

The new British position at Pozieres has been strongly organized to resist German counter attacks despite the rain of artillery fire which the German guns directed against it. The loss of this village was one of the most serious blows struck the Germans by the British on the

TREVINO LOYAL TO CARRANZA IN NORTH MEXICO

U. S. Troopers Rushed to Border at Ojinaga, Near El Paso.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Mexican Ambassador Designate Arredondo this afternoon, received official denial from Mexico City of reports that General Jacinto Trevino had been removed from command of the de facto forces in Chihuahua state and that General Elias Calles, military commander in northern Mexico had revolted.

General Trevino is faithful to the de facto government and is still at the head of the Mexican forces in Chihuahua with General Luis Herrera as his subordinate officer," said Arredondo.

Bluffton Boy Is Killed When Auto Turns Turtle; Broken Wheel Is Cause

Six-year-old Oliver Schnegg, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Schnegg of Bluffton, was instantly killed this morning when a broken wheel caused the automobile in which he was riding to turn turtle.

His little brother Robert, aged five years, escaped with a few scratches, and the chauffeur, Charles Young, 20, was severely bruised.

The boys left the garage owned by their father about 6:30, in company with Young, who has been in the employ of the elder Schnegg for two years. He had delivered some merchandise to a farmhouse southwest of Bluffton and was returning when the accident happened.

About two miles from Bluffton on the Lima road, the right rear wheel of the machine broke down, just at a point where a curve adds to the difficulty of driving. The car pitched to the side and skidded into the ditch, turning completely over.

The boys were both in the front seat with Young. Robert was thrown from the machine as it turned over, and escaped with a few slight scratches and bruises. Young was bruised in many parts of the body, but not seriously. Oliver, however, was buried under the weight of the wreck and was killed instantly. His chest was crushed and most of the ribs broken, only his head remaining unhurt. The machine was almost completely wrecked.

Young hobbled to a telephone and summoned the father, who hurried to the scene with a physician, but the child was already dead. Carl had no wounds to dress, and Young's injuries were not dangerous.

Schnegg stated this morning that the accident was due entirely to the broken wheel, and that no blame could be attached to the driver, Young, whom he considers a competent chauffeur. The skidding was not due to speeding, but to a defect in the machine.

Oliver is survived by his parents and his brother. The funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at the Schnegg home on North Main street.

DEATH LIST LESS IN PARALYSIS PLAGUE

NEW YORK, July 27.—Thirty-one deaths occurred from infantile paralysis and 151 new cases developed during the 24 hours that ended at 10 a. m. today. Yesterday's figures showed 35 deaths and 162 new cases. The total to date for the epidemic are: Deaths 713; cases 3,411.

There are 1,667 cases in the hospitals. As a result of the steady strides of the disease the health officials are seriously considering the question of not re-opening the schools in September. Dr. Billings in charge of paralysis campaign in Brooklyn said today that "the epidemic was not under control by that time the schools would be kept closed unless the board of education excludes children from homes known to be infected."

ROXBURY, Conn.—A valuable collier was being strangled to death by a seven-foot black snake when a "no account pup" bit the snake in two and saved the collier's life.

BRITISH DENY NAVAL VESSEL IN U. S. WATER

Naval Constructor Will Give Word For Departure of U-Boat

WASHINGTON, July 27.—British Ambassador Sir Cecil Spring-Rice this afternoon denied to Acting Secretary of State Polk that a British naval vessel entered American territorial waters near Norfolk, Tuesday night, as was officially reported to the navy department. He demanded that an investigation be made. Ambassador Spring-Rice said all British naval vessels had been ordered not to enter American waters. At the same time, Rear Admiral McLean, commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, this afternoon reported to the navy department that doubt had developed as to whether the vessel seen in Lynnhaven bay actually was a British naval vessel.

OHIO MILITIA WILL BE SENT HOME IS REPORT AT CAMP

CAMP WILLIS, O., July 27.—Reports from semi-official sources were circulated about camp today to the effect that the Ohio militiamen will be sent back to their home stations as soon as they are paid off. The quartermaster's department expected to finish paying off the eight regiment before night.

If the men are relieved from camp duty, it will be with the strict understanding that they be prepared prepared to entrain from their company headquarters on twenty-four's notice and return to Columbus for mobilization purposes.

The discovery that part of the rifle range at Camp Perry has been plowed up for winter wheat made officers here believe that Colonel George K. Hunter, inspector general of the central war department, who is at Camp Perry today looking over the grounds will recommend that the troops not be transferred there for rifle practice.

Major R. W. Mearns, senior mustering officer here, today said that no word had been received from the war department recently regarding the movement of Ohio troops. He said he was preparing to act under the last order, which instructed the movement south of the Ohio militia in units as soon as the men were fully equipped.

Quartermaster W. H. Duffy today had received no word of shipment of supplies necessary to "fully equip" the men and high officials felt that there was no possible chance of getting away for border duty for at least a week. They felt that there was more chance of being ordered home.

Brigadier General J. C. Speaks and W. V. McMaken, the highest officers in camp were unable to obtain a word from officials sources as to what disposition would be made of the Ohioans.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 27.—The German super submarine Deutschland has encountered mechanical difficulties which may indefinitely delay her departure from Baltimore. Tests of the submarine's submerging apparatus have developed defective parts which must be replaced before the Deutschland is ready for her perilous dash through the enemy-infested waters of the Atlantic.

Naval Constructor Pruss who superintended the building of the Deutschland at Bremen and who came to Baltimore as her supercargo, is working day and night on the repairs. He believes he will have the submarine ready to sail within 24 hours.

Twice today the Deutschland was submerged at her pier to test the new machinery being installed. Meanwhile every preparation has been made for the Deutschland's departure and Captain Koenig awaited the word of Constructor Pruss as to when the Deutschland was ready to go.

U. BOAT READY TO GO.
Captain Declines to State Time of Departure.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 27.—With every preparation made and every legal formality complied with, the German super submarine Deutschland today still lay at her dock in Baltimore ready for her dash across the Atlantic. Every possible precaution has been taken to safeguard the undersea boat on her perilous trip through the enemy-infested ocean where warships of the allies waited to capture or destroy her. But the final word that would send the Deutschland down Chesapeake bay on the first leg of her long journey was withheld and Captain Paul Koenig was waiting impatiently for some mysterious message, the lack of which has kept the Deutschland at her dock.

Captain Koenig said today that he could not say when his craft would get away. German Consul Carl Luederitz, however, after announcing that an expected visit of Ambassador Von Bernstorff to Baltimore had been indefinitely postponed, declared:

"The Deutschland is fully prepared to go but I believe she will not be able to get away from Baltimore for about a week."

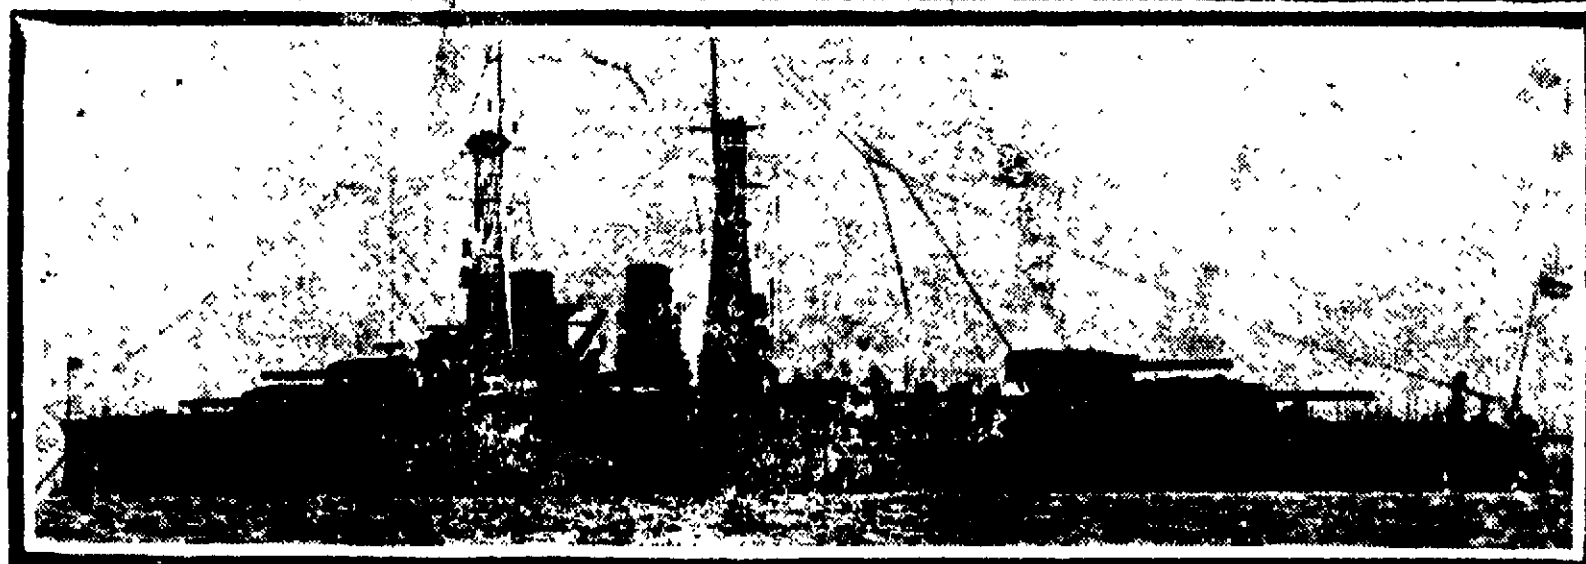

Captain Koenig with his clearance papers in his pocket and a pilot on call at all hours, was apparently ready to move at a moment's notice. But between his craft as she lay at her dock and the open sea there are many perils. Two hulking British freighters, the Highbury and the Ardgyfe swung at their anchor chains in the Patuxent river just off the Deutschland's dock. When they originally dropped anchor they took a position which would effectively have prevented the Deutschland from leaving her pier. The agents of the Deutschland, after excited conferences, complained to the harbor authorities and the Ardgyfe was forced to shift her berth.

She did not move far, however, and the presence of the two Britishers will force Captain Koenig to make an exceedingly careful and laborious start out of his dock.

Down the Patuxent and along Chesapeake bay a fleet of fast motor boats carrying British observers is waiting to relay to the warships outside the cape information as to every move of the submarine after she leaves her dock.

Captain Koenig will be called up

U. S. S. TEXAS LEADS IN GUNNERY

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The battleship Texas leads the navy in gunnery merit for the year 1915-16. Official figures give the Texas a mark of 93.7. The battleship Arkansas, with a mark of 83.927, came last among the 16 ships whose records were announced. The Texas and New York are the only ships carrying 14-inch rifles, the others all being armed with 12-inch main batteries.

on to use all of his seamanship, if he is to make his way through the Virginia capes where a squadron of allied warships lies in wait, keeping a patrol that at times brings them within the three-mile territorial limit.

There was general satisfaction among the German agents here today over the action of the United States in sending the battleship North Carolina and three destroyers to preserve neutrality off the capes. Captain Koenig seemed very gratified. He declared that he felt certain that the United States warships would see that he was given a "square deal."

The tug Timmins which has guarded the Deutschland since her arrival here, made ready for an extended cruise today. The Timmins filled her bunkers with coal and despite the fact that the bunkers hold a week's supply her afterdeck was piled high with brand new canvas bags of coal.

BOY DROWNS NEAR RESERVOIR WEIR

CELINA, July 27.—The first fatality from the swimming season occurred here when Willie Frank, aged sixteen, lost his life in Coldwater creek. The fatality occurred just across from the old waste pail. The lad with two other companions were in swimming. Suddenly Frank sank beneath the waters of the creek and did not rise. His companions went to the rescue, but the boy was dead before he could be brought to shore. Dr. Miller was summoned but the boy could not be resuscitated. The three boys were from Coldwater, the lad who was drowned was the son of Mayor Frank. The boys had come that far from home and no doubt young Frank had been overcome by the heat when he went into the water to meet his death, only a few moments after he had gone in.

BETH ISRAEL LAWN FETE POSTPONED
The lawn fete of Beth Israel Temple has been postponed on account of the critical condition of Mrs. Amelia Frankel. Date will be announced later.

KELLY FUNERAL TODAY
The body of John Kelly, brother to Mrs. Vincent Connolly of 638 west Wayne street, was accompanied to Lima this morning, by way of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad. Death occurred Monday in Detroit, Mich., after an operation. He was 29 years old.

Funeral services were held this morning at St. Rose Catholic church. The Rev. Father Alphonsus Roach celebrated the mass. Interment was at Gethsemani, where the casket was opened to permit old friends to view the body. Fifteen years ago Mr. Kelly resided in Lima. A widow and two sons are left.

WILSON APPOINTS FARM LAND BOARD

Administration's Rural Credits Legislation Ready for Business to Begin.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—President Wilson this afternoon sent to the senate the following nominations as members of the farm loan board, as created by the recently enacted rural credits bill:

Judge Charles E. Laddell, Great Bend, Kansas.
George W. Morris, Philadelphia.
Captain W. A. S. Smith, Sioux City, Iowa.
Herbert Quick, Berkeley Springs, W. V.

LEAVE TO MORTGAGE

The court today granted the First Congregational church privilege to mortgage their church property on south Elizabeth street to the extent of 5,000, to secure money for making repairs on the same. The board of trustees will execute the mortgage.

NON-SUPPORT CASE.

The first case of non-support to be tried before the probate judge of Allen county, instead of a justice of the peace, was that of George Wilson of West Circular street, held before Judge F. C. Becker this morning. The case was continued for a month and Wilson was ordered by the court to refrain from the use of whiskey and pay his wife the amount of $40 a month.

JUDGMENTS CONFESSED.

John Esmonde, Jr., and his wife, Anna, by their attorney, Edwin Blank, today confessed judgment in court in the sum of $260.67, being the amount due on a note for $230, given on November 27, 1914, in favor of D. R. Riser, who secured the judgment.

A. J. Brennehan, by his attorney, W. H. Leete, this morning confessed judgment in the sum of $128.80, in favor of the People's Bank of Delphos, on a note given in Delphos on January 22, 1916, for $125.

A. J. Brennehan and Hiram Hoover confessed judgment in court today for $455 and interest, in favor of G. J. Baxter, on a note given at Delphos on February 8 of this year.

BUBBLE DEATH IS STILL UNSOLVED

Young Man Held for Girl's Killing Was Not Only Admirer

OLNEY, Ill., July 27.—Striking resemblance to the Orpat case of Lake Forest, is seen in some phases of the case which has developed since the arrest of Roy Hinterliter on a charge of causing the death of pretty 17-year-old Elizabeth Ratcliffe by injecting air into her arteries. An indication of what Hinterliter's defense will be was given by former County Judge W. H. Witcher, who has been retained by the family to defend Hinterliter.

It developed that Hinterliter was one of three admirers of the girl. The other two are Fred Herrin and William Haiding, now at the border with Company L, Fourth Illinois infantry. According to this version, Hinterliter was summoned to Olney by two letters—one from the girl, the other from one of her admirers.

"There is nothing to show Hinterliter was responsible for the girl's condition," said Judge Witcher. "There is nothing to show he was responsible for any act of violence. There was a catfisher found, but even if it is shown Hinterliter bought it, there is nothing to show he used it. He only answered a call of distress and wanted only to aid the girl. Another boy who before had tried to cast suspicion of guilt on Hinterliter also wrote him to come to Olney on that particular night."

Judge Witcher declined to give the name of the other boy. Hinterliter's family is well to do. His mother is owner of much valuable farming lands and the family has many wealthy friends. The boy has always been known as a clean-cut young chap, thrifty and given to attending to his business of farming. No attempt is indicated on the part of the state to show any intent to kill—it is only charged that the girl came to her death as a result of an attempted operation which the law does not countenance.

Sheriff West is guarding his prisoner closely and because of the vacation term, the youth may not be admitted to bail for some time.

DONAHEY ON JOB; AUTO TAGS LOWER

COLUMBUS, O., July 27.—Secretary of State Hildebrand today awarded the contract for next year's automobile license tags to the Abbott Stamping company of Detroit at 13.9 cents per pair. "Ohio will purchase its 1917 tags cheaper than any other state in the Union," said Secretary Hildebrand. He stated that as a result of a conference between Governor Willis, the state board of administration and himself it was decided that it would be impracticable now for the state to manufacture these tags. The question, he said, will be put up to the next state legislature.

Other bids submitted included the following:

The Federal Stamping Metal and Enameling company, New York, 18 cents; the Davies Manufacturing company, Akron, holder of this year's contract, 18 1/2 cents; the Barney and Smith Car company, Dayton, 19 1/2 cents.

Although the Akron firm was given the contract to furnish this year's tags at 19 1/2 cents per pair the state is paying 15 cents because Auditor Donahey refused to pay more. The Davies company submitted its contract to the New York Metal Ceiling company at 15 cents per pair. The supreme court upheld Donahey. The metal ceiling company's bid for next year's tags was 16 1/2 cents.

FAVORS CHILD LABOR.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—"I am the father of a large family and opposed to the child labor bill," was the text of one of a flood of telegrams from South Carolina to Senate Majority Leader Kern today urging defeat of the measure to prevent interstate shipment of child labor products. "Everybody works but father," commented Senator Kern.

SUIT TO QUIET TITLE.

Little L. Schermerhorn is plaintiff in a suit filed in court today in which Gideon Jennings, Nancy, his wife, Grace and Gracy Jennings, Jonathan Freet and their heirs-at-law, devisees and legatees are defendants, asking for the quieting of title in Bath township.

JUDGMENT GRANTED.

The Citizens' Building and Loan association of Delphos, was today granted a judgment at $3,621.58 against Daniel V. Gasson and his wife, Laura B., and the National bank of Delphos. Unless this amount is paid the clerk of courts within five days, the land used to secure the mortgage will be appraised and sold at public auction.

Mrs. Polling, wife of Dr. J. B. Polling of 736 West Market street, was removed to the hospital yesterday, where she was operated on for appendicitis.

WORKHOUSE TERM GIVEN NEGRO WHO ASSAULTED POLICE

Officer Thomas Beaten Into Insensibility by Sherman Johnson.

Sherman Johnson, colored, arrested yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct received a hearing in criminal court this morning and was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Toledo workhouse. He was arrested following an assault on Motor Cop Thomas in which the latter sustained a number of painful injuries, yesterday afternoon. Sherman Walker, also colored, who is said to have started the fracas was fined $10 and costs.

It is alleged that the two colored men became involved in an argument at the circus grounds. On returning to the business section of the city they opened the argument in the rear of the Majestic garage. Motor Cop Thomas responded to the call to quiet the disturbance. When he attempted to arrest the two men they both attacked him, Johnson striking him with a bucket which knocked him to the ground insensate.

After an exciting chase over the city following the attack of Johnson on the officer, Patrolman Wallace succeeded in arresting the offender on south Pierce street. Although he made an attempt to break away from the patrolman he was overpowered and placed behind the bars at the city prison. Walker who also disappeared from the scene of the attack on the officer was later arrested by patrolman Landfair. When taken into custody he was hiding in a barrel with an infant in his arms.

have been posted at Toluca, the nearest United States settlement and their outposts are in touch with the district about Ojinaga. Other troops are being held in readiness and will be rushed to any spot that is threatened.

General Matias Ramos who is stationed at Escalon, 100 miles north of Torreon, has sent word to Juarez that Villa's band has been scattered and that the outlaw chief is in hiding in Canon de Las Huertas with a handful of men. However, this news is received with a great deal of skepticism among army men here.

There is to be a new commander of the Mexican garrison at Juarez. General Francisco Gonzales who had held the post, has been ordered to join his command near Chihuahua City and he will be succeeded by General Leon Buelon who served as chief of staff under Gonzales.

The chief interest in Juarez at present centers in the bull fight to be held on Sunday.

The old bull ring which has been closed since Carranza assumed control of the Mexican government will be thrown open then for the first time.

The report that several United States army officers visited Juarez in Mufti and led to an order forbidding all officers and men of the rank and file from crossing the border.

HELD FOR ASSAULT.

Frank Smith, arrested yesterday on a charge of drunkenness, is being held at the city prison to await an investigation of the attack on Frank Summers, of Boston, Mass. It is alleged that Smith attempted to rob Summers. As a result of the attack Summers sustained injuries which caused him to be taken to the City hospital. However, he was able to leave that institution last night.

A charge of assault will not be preferred against Smith unless he injures a man desiring to file one.

TOLEDO SUFFERING.

TOLEDO, O., July 27.—One proscription resulted today from the record-breaking climb of the mercury. Temperatures today were equal hourly to those of the day before when all former records were shattered. There is intense suffering in all quarters.

THE IDLER

Ethel Boyce and Mrs. Harper, arrested several days ago on charges of pocketpicking, were fined each $25 and costs. It is alleged that they stole a $50 watch from John H. Bernard of Detroit and $45 from J. L. McKinney, Richmond, Ind.

George Rupert, of Delphos, arrested yesterday on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $5 and costs in criminal court this morning. He was arrested on the public square by Plainclothesmen Billstein and Reed.

Few cases of pocketpicking were called to the attention of the police department. Only one case was reported directly to headquarters and it was on a minor nature. The usual run of followers of circuses were noticeably absent yesterday.

F. S. Baty, arrested yesterday by Patrolman Wallace on a charge of exceeding the speed limit, was fined $5 and costs when arraigned in criminal court this morning.

At the meeting yesterday of the Mother's club at Mizpah Center Mrs. Winona Forrer, greatly delighted her audience with her readings, which included dialect stories for the children and more mature things for the mothers. Mrs. Lester Pratt continued the reading of "Pollyanna," and Miss Helen McForrest further contributed to the program by an impromptu reading. Refreshments were then served to the thirty mothers and children attending, and announcement was made that Miss Ruth McClurg would hold sewing classes for the young girls at the center every Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Mr. William Frohofer of Philadelphia who was the guest of Mr. Edward Stolzenbach for several days left yesterday for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Nauffman of Lakewood have as their guest Mr. Donald McDonald of New York.

Steffen and Cristo, grocers, arrested on the charge of selling underweight, were fined one dollar and costs this morning by Justice of the Peace Hamilton. They were taken before the court by order of City Sealer John N. Herbolzheimer, representing the state.

MRS FRANKEL DIES AT WEINFELD HOME

Mrs. Amelia Frankel, 89 years old, mother of Mrs. Samuel Weinfeld of South Cole street, died this afternoon, after a short illness from a complication of diseases. On April 8 of last year, as was her custom annually, she celebrated her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Frankel was born in Frankfurt, Germany, coming to America when but a young girl. For nearly 30 years she has resided in Lima.

Mrs. Weinfeld, Mrs. Aaron Reigleman of Milwaukee, are daughters, and Alex Frankel, Abraham and Leo Frankel of Cincinnati, sons, left up to the last few weeks, Mrs. Frankel retained all her faculties and took an active part in the duties of life.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Weinfeld home, conducted by Rabbi David Lefkowitz of Dayton. The body will be accompanied to Cincinnati, where funeral services will be held. Interment will be in Cincinnati.

BOYS DROWN IN RIVER.

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., July 27.—Francis Henphill, of Howe, and Francis Beecher, of Shipshewana, 10-year-old boys, were drowned in Pigeon river. Neither could swim and they lost their lives when they stepped into a deep hole.

PATHFINDER TWIN-SIX ON BIG TRIP

Passed Through Lima Today on Coast to Coast Journey.

The "Twin-Six" transcontinental high gear pathfinder, an official car of the San Diego exposition, passed through here today on its coast to coast trip that is expected to hang up a record for a long distance high gear tour.

The "Twin-Six" is the second car of the exposition's remarkable transcontinental highway demonstration, the first, the old pathfinder "Lena" having passed through here two weeks ago. Sealed by the American Automobile association, the car contains only high and reverse gears, making the trip a demonstration of the ease with which the Lincoln highway can be traversed. The car was also passed by A. A. A. as stock model.

The car is striped in red, white and blue, the colors of the Lincoln Highway association, and bears a brass plate announcing the auspices of that organization and the A. A. A. on the trip. Walter Widely and Helme Scholer compose the "Twin Six's" crew on the strenuous trip.

The pathfinder was started from the exposition as the climax of a huge celebration. The send-off itself, composed a record of note, the motor of the "Twin Six" having been started by telegram from the pilot car "Lena" at Denver. A relay was inserted in the starting circuit of the big machine and connected up with Denver via Western Union. From his seat in "Lena," Pilot L. M. Maynard and W. E. Stilaker, vice president of Pathfinder Company, Indianapolis, sent the last message of instructions to the "Twin Six's" crew, and then at the appointed moment pressed the button that started the roar of the 12 cylindered motor over a thousand miles away.

If successful the pathfinder will have established the record as the only machine to cross the continent sealed in high gear.

Walter A. Whans, driver of the Pathfinder when interviewed said: "We reached Lima at 11:30 this morning with A. A. A. seal on transmission still intact. This establishes distance record on high gear—4110 miles to Lima. This demonstrates that Lincoln highway is proper route, having less grades—also demonstrating greater range of ability on high gear of pathfinder's 12-cylinder car. We crossed Sierra Nevada mountains and continental divide on high gear. Expect to reach New York Sunday, this week. Started July 3rd."

THREE DIE FROM HEAT AT CANTON

CANTON, O., July 27.—When the official thermometer read 98 today, the hottest day of the year by eight degrees, Canton had its first deaths caused by heat. Three men, Andrew Mandarzio, Vincent Rowland and Henry Allerton, the latter of Louisville, east of here, were overcome and died soon afterward while at their various occupations. Allerton was a blacksmith. Scores of babies are ill and the ice companies are facing a serious shortage. They have been drawing on the natural supply for several weeks because of the inadequacy of the artificial supply.

CONGRESS TODAY.

House met at noon; senate met at 10 o'clock.

House naval affairs committee took up naval appropriation bill.

DECLINES NOMINATION.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., July 27.—Charles H. Bender, president of the City Trust & Savings Bank, and a strong democratic leader in Michigan, has declined to accept the nomination for governor, to succeed Governor W. N. Ferris, who has refused to accept the nomination for a third term.

Repulse of Attack Reported By Berlin

The war office report follows: "During the night our artillery was active. We continued to press the enemy back in hand encounters at various points. The enemy is using large number of gas and tear shells. Elsewhere on the front there have been no important developments in the past 48 hours."

RUSSIAN HOLD ARMENIA.

Czar's Army Advancing Toward Bagdad Railway.

PETROGRAD, July 27.—All of Turkish Armenia is now in possession of the Russians as a result of the capture of Erzingan by the army of Grand Duke Nicholas.

Only feeble resistance is being offered to the victorious Russians as they continue their advance northward toward the Bagdad railway southwestward toward the Mediterranean sea and northward toward Constantinople. The Russians that captured Erzingan did not pause there but are continuing their pursuit of the demoralized Turks. Russian forces are moving upon Kemah and Karissar west and northwest of Erzingan.

The advance guard of the individual Russian army under General Udenitch which is west of Erzingan is about 500 miles from Constantinople but is only 260 miles from the Mediterranean sea. Despatches from Tiflis say the Turks set fire to Erzingan before evacuating the city but considerable booty fell into the hands of the Russians.

On the western front violent fighting has developed along the Dvina river front where Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is making desperate efforts to check the Russian advance by means of savage counter attacks.

Around the great railway town of Baranovitch, farther to the south, another battle is in progress.

The fall of Brody on the Galician frontier is believed to be imminent. The Russians have made further progress during the past 24 hours in their encircling movement, capturing prisoners and guns. Fighting in Volhynia is being carried out under tremendous difficulties owing to continuous rain storms which have turned the battle field into swamps and inland seas.

DOMESTIC TRAGEDIES IN DIVORCE COURT

Matrimonial Misfits Show Up Badly for Daniel Cupid, Esq.

That he threatened to kill her and at one time pulled the hair out by the roots from the scalp of one of their children, was the allegations made by Loretta C. Kennedy in her petition for divorce, filed this afternoon against William J. Kennedy. Gross neglect of duty and failure to provide, for many years, with habitual drunkenness for the past three years, were some of the charges made. She says he spent his earnings for drink, idled away his time and indulged in profligacy and dissipation. The wife says she was forced to do washing and ironing, janitor work and other physical labor.

The couple were married on April 7, 1885, and have five living children, two of whom are of legal age. The court granted an injunction, restraining Kennedy from interfering, in any way, with the wife, or selling or encumbering her personal property.

Kennedy is a well-known local police character, known as "Whiskey Bill."

Habitually drunk for three years past, striking and abusing her, as well as threatening violence, B. Franklin Lambert of 649 South Union street, is defendant in a divorce suit, filed yesterday afternoon by his wife, Alta Lambert. The couple were married in Lima on August 3, 1912. Of three children born, Roland Earl, 2 years old, is living and today the court gave him into the custody of the mother.

An injunction was also granted by Judge Bailey, restraining Lambert from interfering with his wife or from selling, transferring or encumbering any personal property.

Rachael Ludwig yesterday afternoon sued for a divorce from Jacob L. Ludwig, to whom she was married on October 6, 1881, in Putnam county. They are the parents of 9 children, all of whom are of age save Lloyd, 19 years, and Marie, 13. She alleges he struck and beat her, called her vile and profane names, and threatened to kill her, names, and threatened to kill her, and locked her in the house, threatening bodily harm, is the claim made.

The wife avers he used the telephone to make engagements with women and then boasts to her of being in immoral company. She owns the residence at 611 Dingleline avenue, where they reside, and asks his dower in her property be barred and that he be ordered to provide for the minor children.

TOUGH ON HUBBY.

FREMONT, Ohio, July 27.—The $20,000 damage suit of William Overmyer, against Charles Shetenhelm, wealthy retired farmer, for alienation of his wife's affections, was settled for $600. Attorney for the wife promptly claimed part of the settlement money as alimony.

BETTER MAKE SURE OF RIGHT TO VOTE IN COMING PRIMARIES

If You've Moved Since You Voted, Transfer is Necessary.

Registration to be Held Friday and Saturday, 8 to 2 and 4 to 9.

Voters who have moved to a new place of residence since the last election at which they voted, and who desire to participate in the coming primary, must record their transfer of registration tomorrow or Saturday, according to officials of the board of elections. No man is allowed to vote in a precinct in which he has not registered, and if any one has moved, it will be well for him to ascertain whether or not he has crossed a precinct line.

HAVE YOU MOVED?

If you have moved recently, or since you last voted, and desire to vote in the coming primary elections, do this:

1.—Find out whether or not you have moved to a new precinct.

2.—Find out whether you have lived in state, county or precinct long enough to vote.

3.—Find out whether or not you have to register again in order to vote.

Make sure you know where to go to register.

In case of any doubts as to your precinct, right to vote or the like, call Main 1805.

This information should be followed with care by those who have moved into Lima, or from one point to another in the county or city, since the last election in which they participated. Many persons never vote in other than presidential years and others often miss state, municipal and township elections on account of inclement weather. The records show that a serious decline will appear in the days when storms interfere with travel.

The man who complies with the laws should in the future for the only times when transfers may be made in time to allow voting in the primary of August 3 will be between the hours of 8 and 2 and 4 and 9 Friday and Saturday. Inquiries in the neighborhood might settle the question of where to register, but as precinct lines are inviolable and generally run down the street it will be safe to call up the board of elections, Main 1805, for the information. State your present residence, the length of time you have lived there and ask where to register, if new registration by transfer is requisite to voting in the primary.

Lewis Beach, 35 years old, who came from Kalida yesterday to attend the circus fell from a defiance division interurban car last night as he was trying to stand on the steps to get home. His body was bruised and he received painful cuts. The Williams and Davis ambulance hurried him to the hospital. He was able to leave today for his home.

DROWNED IN BAY.

SANDUSKY, O., July 27.—William Thierry, a lad of eight, was drowned here this morning when he slipped on wet cinders and fell into the bay. The body was recovered.

R. R. BROTHERHOODS VOTE FOR STRIKE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 27.—Reports reaching here indicate that the nation-wide vote of four brotherhoods of railway employees on the question of authorizing their union officials to call a strike of 450,000 men will be nearly unanimous. Over most of the country the vote in favor of such authorization averages between 90 and 95 per cent while it is known here that 99 per cent of the Frisco employees and 98 per cent of the M. K. & T. workers have voted in favor of the walkout if necessary.

COMPLAINT AGAINST TELEPHONE COMPANY

COLUMBUS, O., July 27.—Five Delaware county citizens asked the state utilities commission to compel the Citizens' Telephone Company of Delaware, to install phones in their homes. The petitioners are: C. M. Reed, E. P. Roloson, M. E. Lyons, C. A. Ferguson and W. H. B. Roloson. They claim that against their will, they have been forced to use the service of the Delaware County Telephone Company. They charged that the latter's wires have been out of order for one month.

TOUGH ON HUBBY.

FREMONT, Ohio, July 27.—The $20,000 damage suit of William Overmyer, against Charles Shetenhelm, wealthy retired farmer, for alienation of his wife's affections, was settled for $600. Attorney for the wife promptly claimed part of the settlement money as alimony.

SEARCH FOR BODIES IN DEATH TUNNEL MAY BE GIVEN UP

Gas Vein is Beyond Control
Under Lake at Cleveland, is Report.

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—The possibility of the city being compelled to abandon search for the bodies of nine victims of the crib disaster and forego further work on the waterworks tunnel increased today when Chief L. M. Jones, the Pittsburgh federal mining expert, gave it as his opinion that the accident had uncovered a gas well of uncontrollable proportions.

Rescue and repair gangs were to make tests today when crib officials said an attempt would be made to remove part of the 278 foot wall of dirt which lies between the open end of the death hole and the bodies. Though the percentage of gas exceeded five per cent—a highly explosive ratio—late last night indications were that the tunnel would be sufficiently cleared to permit the gangs at least to begin operations.

Federal experts say the great vein of sand and gravel found by them may indicate the presence of a monster natural gas well. This may effectively prevent further operations.

Gas well or no gas well, the work of taking out the bodies cannot be consumed for at least a week experts said. After the sixth trip into the tunnel yesterday Jones and his assistants found what they characterized as an "alarming mud formation." A wall of solid mud, 278 ft. in length, separates the open end of the workings from the spot where the explosion occurred. Special apparatus must be installed to carry it away and it cannot be ripped out faster than 25 feet a day.

Water Commissioner Charles P. Jaeger was to be the first witness called in the city's investigation to be started at 1 o'clock in the city hall. He will be asked to explain the nature of the construction of the crib and tunnel.

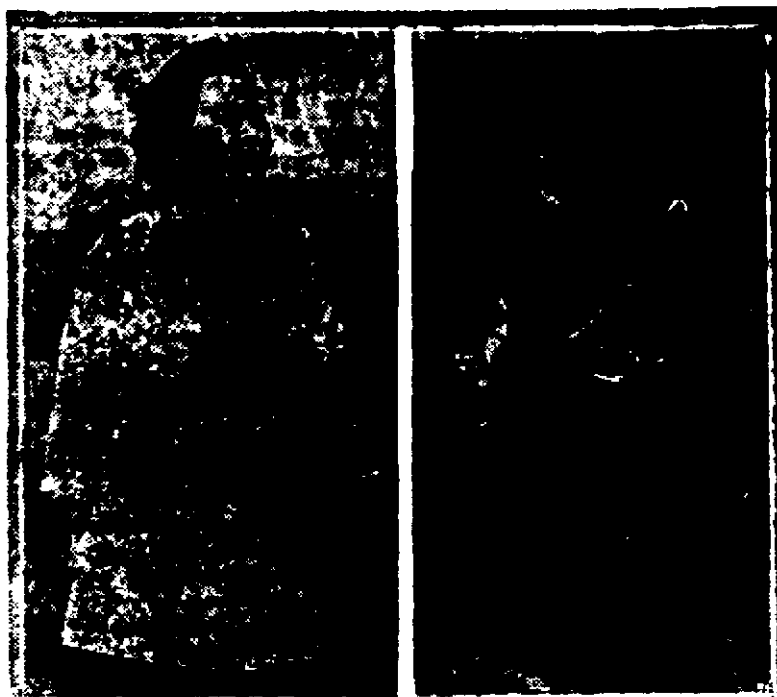

The cribs today were "practically deserted, all but two of the men having quit number four and only a handful being left at number five."

Patrick Kearns, supposed dead with Voke's gang, showed up at shaft No. 2. Whiskey Island yesterday none the worse except for two nights spent sleeping in Edgewater Park. He oversteered his shore leave and missed death by a margin.

Justus Aro, another man supposed to be dead was reported alive by H. W. Forrer, time-keeper at crib No. 5 so the death list is reduced to 19.

FOR SUMMER TROUBLES.
Hay fever afflicts thousands and asthma sufferers endure torture. Foley's Honey and Tar gives relief. It allays inflammation, clears air passages, eases rasping cough, soothes and heals. This wholesome family remedy contains no opiates—a bottle lasts a long time. H. P. Vorkamp.

Two Views of the Little Doctor of Kinkiang.

Dr. Mary Stone, "the little doctor of Kinkiang," is a native Chinese, educated in a Methodist mission school in China and later graduated from the Medical school of the University of Michigan. Immediately upon receiving her diploma she hastened to Kinkiang and started a work that, within two years, necessitated the foundation of the now famous Elizabeth Shelton Danforth Memorial hospital, where for sixteen years the little doctor has been quietly at work without interruption.

Dr. Stone is at the head of a staff which is treating nearly 25,000 patients a year. In addition to being physician and surgeon of remarkable skill, she is famous as a writer, administrator, public speaker, evangelist, home maker and charming hostess.

"The great difficulties encountered in medical work in China," said she, "are public ignorance and procrastination. Many of our patients come to us in the last stages of disease, having patiently waited for self-cure before asking for medical attention. We meet a variety of diseases which quite outnumber those to be found even in the most crowded dispensaries of the great American cities."

PERFECT LOVER

By ELIZABETH E. HOYT.

Molly Foss was one of seven girls who had grown up together in Easton. Molly alone had shown no signs of losing her heart. She had studied nursing. And, of course, she might have gone on nursing peacefully forever had not Dr. Richard Randall come to town.

Molly's affection did not reciprocate Dr. Richard Randall's devotion. The first to speak to Molly about it was Carrie Smith, who had been Carrie Waters. Carrie's husband had had an attack of pneumonia, and Molly had come to help Carrie out—and Doctor Randall was the doctor. One night she told her friend just what she thought of her indifference to the young doctor.

"Molly, my dear," she said, "I am going to speak to you plainly. Let me tell you it is a great thing to have the devotion of a man who is interested in the same things you are. Think it over, Molly, dear."

It was Helen Lake who spoke the next word to Molly about Doctor Randall. "You ought to be mighty thankful, Molly Foss," Helen said, "to have a man like Doctor Randall. He is so exactly the right size for you." Helen sighed.

A week or two later Molly was calling on Betty Arnold Winter, whose husband, Peter, had brought her much love and a salary of $15 a week. "Molly," said Betty, "the slightest mischance would send us both to the poorhouse. Doctor Randall is the most prosperous person in Easton."

Grace McPherson overtook Molly a few days later. "Molly," she said, "you may think it is none of my business and I am awfully silly, but you know I've seen quite a lot of Tom Sears lately, and I like him very much. But Sundays he just stays at home and smokes, and when he takes me home from evening meeting he always waits outside the church door. I feel so wicked, Molly! Dr. Richard Randall comes to church every Sunday. I envy you, Molly."

Gertrude Fiske Ingraham called on Molly on purpose to deliver her message. "I am going to tell you frankly," she said, "that you don't half appreciate Dr. Richard Randall's family connections. I know a girl who lives in Rye, where his family came from, and she said his mother had just read a paper before the women's club on the mistake it was for relatives to come to live with a young couple. I vow I never spoke of this before, but what with Mother Ingraham and Cousin Sophronia and Great-aunt Dorcas all living with Percy and me and all wanting to run the house, from pouring the tea to bringing up the baby, I tell you sometimes it almost breaks my heart."

Molly's dearest friend, Lou Thompson, who was to be married in June, came to Molly a few weeks before the wedding. "Molly," she said, "I know you'll understand why I tell you this, for I'm doing it not to hurt John, but for your own sake. I love John, but he's so forgetful of little things that sometimes he almost breaks my heart. He doesn't take off his hat as soon as he comes into the house—and things like that, you know. I never dreamed of speaking of this before. Until you've had an experience like mine you won't know that manners can be more aggravating than anything else in the world. And you ought to know how important they are. Molly, for Dr. Richard Randall has the best manners I ever saw in any man in all my life."

Then Molly unburdened herself. "Dear Lou," she said, "Richard Randall is too perfect. He is interested in the right thing, he is the right size, he has a good income, he's got the best kind of habits, and the best kind of relatives, and he's eugenic, and feathery and generous, and he has the best disposition in the world. And, to cap the climax, he has absolutely flawless manners. Lou, I am not perfect myself, and I'm not going to marry a man who is. If I ever did a thing that wasn't quite right, or accepted, you know, Richard would never say a word, but I would feel his reproach to the end of my days. If I could only find one single little human failing in him I would marry him, but I won't marry a perfect man, and if I were you, Lou Thompson, I'd be mighty thankful that John does sometimes forget to take off his hat."

Dr. Richard Randall continued in her indifference until early last July. On the Fourth they were invited to dinner several miles from Easton. That night as they were driving home in the soft summer darkness, for the seventh time Richard Randall asked Molly Foss to marry him, and to his infinite surprise she said yes without a moment's hesitation.

They were married in September and lived even more happily than their friends had predicted. Richard was perfectly satisfied with Molly and Molly was perfectly satisfied with Richard; but one day, six months after the wedding, Richard looked at his wife very seriously and asked, "How was it that you said yes so suddenly on the way home from Uncle Rufus King's?"

"Dearest Richard," Molly said, kissing him, "it was because you ate your peas with a spoon."

Sec'y McAdoo Sees New Ship Need

WILLIAM G. McADOO, SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, has made a statement to the effect that there is now a more urgent need for a merchant marine than ever in view of the British black list of our goods.

"If the United States had such a merchant marine now," he said, "we could send our cargoes to any part of the world in our own ships, regardless of such war measures."

Lesson in Questions for July 30.
Mrs. D. Carl Yoder.
The Word of the Cross.
(1 Cor. 1:1 to 2:5.)

Introduction.—Where was Paul when he wrote this letter? Why did he write it? To whom directed? What is the value of gratitude as seen in the introduction of this letter? Trace his argument in "the name of Christ."

1. V. 15.—What grounds for thinking the preaching of the gospel foolishness? or that it is the power of God?

2. V. 19.—How does the wisdom of God effect the wisdom of men?

3. V. 20 and 21.—What constitutes the wisdom of the world? Note the different meanings of "wisdom."

4. V. 22-24.—What is the distinctive test of a religion by the Jews, by the Greeks, by Paul? Illustrate these tests.

5. 26.—Why do more accept the Christian religion?

6. V. 27 and 28.—What argument for the worth and work of the disciples as well as of Paul?

7. V. 30.—What is the definite appropriation of Christ?

8. V. 31.—To whom only is glory to be ascribed? Why?

9. V. 1 and 5.—Paul's purpose? Our purpose?

Sunday School Forum.
1. How may boys be reached for Sunday school?

Go after them personally, systematically, persistently; be interested in what the boys are interested; organize the class providing something for each one to do; don't "don't" but teach positively; plan to treat each boy according to his nature; allow for animal spirits; be tactful; keep close to them; give them the right kind of men teachers; love and trust them; smile and be happy with them. — Marion Lawrence.

2. What text books do you recommend for a class to take in beginning teacher training? "The Pupil and the Teacher" by Weigle; "First Standard Manual of Teacher Training" by Barclay; "The Teaching of Bible Classes" by See; "Talks with the Training Class" by Margaret Slattery.—Prof. C. O. Hoyt, State Normal College, Ypsilanti, Mich.

TOLEDO NEWSPAPER REPORTER DEAD

Cloyce C. Wilkinson, 50 years of age, newspaper reporter for some years on a Toledo paper, died at his home on Norwood avenue in that city yesterday. He had been ill about a year, death being due to nervous prostration and collapse.

He was born in Van Wert. The widow and a son are left.

Funeral services will be held in Toledo tomorrow and the remains will be accompanied to this city over the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad. The funeral cortege will proceed at once to Woodlawn, where interment will be made. Wilkinson was at one time a reporter on the Lima Republican-Gazette.

KISSING STENOGRAPHER BARRED BY COURT RULE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 27.—"It is cruel and inhuman" for a husband to kiss his stenographer and neglect his wife in this respect according to a divorce bill filed here today by Mrs. Laura Russell, wife of a local railroad freight agent. Mrs. Russell entered her husband's office several days ago, and according to her complaint, found her husband and his stenographer in the throes of osculatory bliss. The only "cruel and inhuman" treatment cited in the complaint is that Russell lavished his affections on his stenographer and left his wife kissless.

ARMY BILL PASSED.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The army appropriation bill carrying $312,000,000 this afternoon was passed by the senate without a record vote. The measure as passed by the house carried only $180,000,000 and will now go to conference for an agreement. Just before passage the senate adopted a resolution by Senator LaFollette appropriating $2,000,000 for maintenance of dependent families of members of the national guard and of the regular army.

CRUSHED BY TRAIN.

WOOSTER, O., July 27.—A. L. Freese, 35, Pennsylvania railroad freeman, living at Crestline, was crushed to death this morning by a freight train at Mill Brook, Pa.

HUGHES' PREDICATION

If Charles E. Hughes, the Republican candidate for president, makes an issue of the federal reserve system, established by the Democratic administration, is he going to read out of his party the 23 Republicans who voted for the measure in the house?

Will he repudiate the 16 Progressives, the one Independent, and the Republicans who voted with the Democrats in establishing the sound banking and currency law which has been approved the public and the banking world?

Will he also repudiate the 7 Republicans who voted for the measure in the senate?

Mr. Hughes will have a difficult time evolving any issue that will not entail a repudiation of many of the congressional leaders of his own party.

If he thinks it expedient to adopt a strong attitude on the submarine controversy, which President Wilson settled by obtaining a full recognition of American rights under international law and bringing about the cessation of submarine warfare, he will have to repudiate the 101 Republican representatives who voted against ratifying the McLenore resolution and thus registered themselves in favor of a surrender of American rights. Indidentally, he will have to read out of the Republican party the twelve Republican United States senators who voted against tabling the Gons resolution, which involved a similar surrender when President Wilson was forcing the recognition of American rights.

There were 12 Republicans in the senate who voted for the administration's trade commission bill, and while there was no record vote in the house, several Republican-voted for the trade commission bill.

The Republican party in its platform has endorsed the trade commission method of handling the tariff. Before that plank was adopted by the Republican party, the Democratic administration had introduced the Ramey tariff commission bill in congress and it will be some law in a few weeks. And the Chamber of Commerce of the United States representing the business men of the nation, Republican and Democratic and Progressive has endorsed the Ramey bill.

One hundred and twelve Republican and four Progressive-voted with the Democratic majority for the good roads bill in the house. One hundred and four Republican and three Progressive-voted for the administration's rural credits bill.

Republican leaders of the house and senate repeatedly have endorsed the president's action in keeping out of war with Mexico. If a vote were taken in the house and senate today on remaining at peace with Mexico the Republicans would vote for peace so long as President Wilson is able, as he has been to preserve the honor of the nation.

It will be interesting to see how far Mr. Hughes goes in repudiating his own party in his speech of acceptance. The only way he can avoid the repudiation of a very large number of the Republican leaders in congress is by skidding around all the problems of the day.

Preparing to Live
By Beatrice Fairfax

LIFE wastes itself while we are preparing to live. wrote Emerson.

The Sage of Concord spoke one of his deep truths in that simple sentence.

Too many of us treat life as if it were a journey for which we had to do shopping and sewing and packing. We tire ourselves out buying certain things and arranging to take them with us and laying others away in camp so that they will be out of the way for the present, but available if we chance to want them later.

Life is a journey—but most of the things we need we can get on the way.

Education is not a matter of going through high school or college, earning a diploma, framing it, and feeling that in that place of evidence lies our claim to culture. Education is a matter of learning every day and as we go.

Fitting ourselves for work isn't a matter of studying up to a certain point, accepting a position after due preparation and then expending bit by bit a full store of knowledge secured in advance.

Instead, it is a matter of imbibing knowledge every day, of learning by each hour's experience, of adjusting ourselves to circumstances as they rise and of growing to meet the needs of a growing work.

Most of us put the accent on the wrong place in our living. We live all the time and steadily, so we should learn to live more and more fully each day. No one can prepare for anything so perfectly that unexpected situations will not arise which have to be met with mental agility and a certain power to react to new situations.

The sum of experience is never done. We keep adding to it every day. All of us are learning all of the time, else we are stagnating or worse still, evaporating mentally.

Preparing to live, planning to do something splendid tomorrow or next week, is almost a guarantee of never doing anything worth while.

A great author once said that he kept a notebook full of plots and suggestions for plots which he meant to work up some day into masterpieces. He died with all the material in that notebook untouched.

His life might have wasted itself while he was preparing to write except for the fact that he never ceased writing other stories and plots—the tales of lesser importance in his judgment—the things he didn't jot down in the notebook with the idea of working up some day, but those he worked at as he went along.

The great "masterpieces" he meant to do when he had leisure, when he had prepared himself for them were never accomplished. His "lesser works" made his reputation.

And life is like that. It will waste itself as we are preparing to live if we don't live even while we prepare.

stand on the curbstone and gaze at the bulky gray buildings with its purple and yellow pennants and huge bronze lions, and then you gaze at the countless automobiles streaming past you and decide to remain where you are. But just at that moment a large policeman raises an immense white glove and while the automobiles stand champing at their cranks-shafts.

Once in the building all mundane worries leave you and you wonder down the corridors and through the rooms in the dream-crowded world of Art, where sculpture and tapestries, exquisite porcelains and quaintly carved musical instruments are forever mutely telling the story of their creators, who realized beauty and so became immortal. Or you ascend the shallow stairs to the second floor and stroll among the pictures pausing longest in the luncheon room, whose misty landscapes have a peculiarly restful charm for the foot-sore sightseer.

Before you leave go down to Blackstone Hall and peer into the school entrance creatures in dirty smocks or paint coats wandering down the corridor or disappearing in two behind lockers.

The school entrance however, is the only door about the Art Institute that is barred, for it is a truly democratic place. On Sundays especially it holds more different classes of people than any other spot in Chicago. In the afternoon there are concerts in Fullert. Hall by members of the Symphony Orchestra, and in the evening grand opera lectures. Between times the eager dilettante can go to the Ryerson Library and read about art, or betake himself to the cafeteria in the basement and there satisfy his less artistic nature.

And when at last he leaves, steeped in culture, and crosses Michigan avenue again he stands on the curbstone for a moment and looks back to the building, dark against the sky and thanks it in his heart. For the Art Institute of Chicago is more than an Institute. In many people's lives it is an oasis of beauty.

HEALTHHINTS
GERMS ARE CARRIED BY A PACIFIER

Pacifiers and summer heat make like precarious for baby. The bad habit of sucking on a rubber nipple or any similar article is one for which some other than baby is responsible.

Some of the evil effects laid to this habit are that it spoils the natural arch of the mouth by causing the protrusion of the upper jaw and that it induces a constant flow of saliva and keeps the baby drooling.

Disfigures Mouth.

The pacifier never is clean. It readily may carry the germs of disease into the baby's mouth. It also is a habit that is particularly disfiguring to baby's appearance.

Thumb sucking is just as bad a habit for baby as sucking a pacifier. To break the baby of either habit requires resolution and patience on the part of the mother.

The thumb or finger must be persistently and constantly removed from the mouth and baby's attention diverted to something else.

Keep Hand Covered.

The sleeve may be pinned or sewed down over the fingers of the offending hand for several days and night, or the hand may be put in a cotton mitten.

The baby's hands, if he is old enough to use them, should be free now and then for his toys, and at meal times, to save as much unnecessary strain on his nerves as possible.

But with the approach of sleeping time the hand should be covered.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 27—The United States is giving away a principlality today. Three hundred and fifty thousand acres of choice stock raising land, comprising the southern half of the Colville Indian reservation, is being disposed of in a great land lottery.

The territory lies about 50 miles from this city on the Columbia river. It is about 70 by 40 miles in area and has an elevation of one to six thousand feet. Every would be settler drawing a lucky number today will get a 160-acre ranch.

20,000 VOLUNTEERS WORK ON GREAT HIGHWAY

DYERSBURG, Tenn., July 27.—It is estimated that 20,000 men and 5,000 teams are at work today improving Jefferson Davis highway through west Tennessee. The highway is to be a section of the great national highway, running from Duluth, Minn., to New Orleans, La. Business was suspended in all towns along the route of the Jefferson highway today and clerks, store proprietors, doctors, lawyers, farmers and laborers joined in working the roads. The highway extends from Paducah, Ky., to Memphis, Tenn. A silver loving cup will be presented by an automobile company to the county making the greatest improvement. The work is under the plans and direction of the good roads department league of west Tennessee.

Women joined the men in the work. While they did not attempt manual labor, they supplied cold lemonade and tempting lunches all along the route.

Are Better Than Fancies
Also harder to comprehend.
That's why they're rarely met.
Also why they're not always believed.

But that doesn't remove the obligation of every man to inform himself when facts are of vital importance.

No dream, however beautiful, can offset the effect of one hard, cold reality.

Especially in political and public affairs, when your decision may hold the balance of power, does it become your duty to know the truth and to act accordingly. The man who enjoys the rights conferred by the nation should also perform the moral duties imposed by the government. Among these obligations is intelligent voting.

When confronted by an opportunity to act in ignorance, basing your vote or act on the coaxing of a chance acquaintance, it is your duty as a citizen to investigate. The man who is too indifferent to inform himself is not a patriotic citizen.

BLACKLIST PROTEST DUE IN 48 HOURS

Business Interests Deluge
White House With Complaints; Cases Cited.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The protest of the United States against the British boycott order may be sent to London within 48 hours. If it does go it will be made plain therein that it is the nature of a preliminary document going to the root of the complaint with the details to be furnished later.

The pressure upon the White House to force England to eliminate what the business interests affected declare is an open attempt to dominate American trade is increasing. Complaints are arriving by every mail and the president has asked the state department to hurry the collection of evidence upon which the protest can be based as much as possible.

Meanwhile the department is insisting, through the British embassy here that certain firms admittedly innocent of violating any part of the British decree be removed from the boycott list. These individual cases are being taken up directly with London by the British embassy officials here. It is understood that most of the individual cases brought to the attention of the British government likely will receive favorable action. It has been learned here that the real reason for the delay in the receipt of the complete reply to the mail protest is that there is a disagreement between the French and British authorities on the position to be taken. France is said to lean to the belief that the American contention that neutral vessels carrying mail which are diverted into British or French territorial waters for cargo inspection cannot be held subject to domestic regulations which include search and seizure of mails in transit, the British authorities on the other hand declare that the presence of a vessel within territorial waters, no matter how brought there, makes it liable to the local regulations.

The London embassy today notified the state department that it has been informed that they all reply will be expedited as much as possible and that it still is a subject of discussion with the French government.

It is understood that the protest was compiled by President Wilson personally. It will be public next Monday morning. Officials at the White House and state department expressed themselves as hopeful that the British government will modify considerably its position in view of the emphatic opposition enunciated by the United States. The protest, it is understood, insists that the boycott, as announced by the British government, is in direct opposition to the trade treaties between the two governments. It is also characterized, officials say, as an unwarranted interference in the domestic affairs of the United States. Interference with the business of American merchants, the protest says, especially when that business is almost exclusively confined to neutral territory, cannot be permitted by the United States. The general employment of the boycott by Great Britain is declared in effect to be an unfriendly act.

ROUGH FUNERAL TODAY

Services were held this morning at 10 o'clock over the remains of Richard Roush, son of Dr. William Roush, who was drowned at "Ladyfoot" pond, near Woodlawn cemetery on Monday night. Rev. M. B. ACTORS AND NEWSPAPER MEN MAKE BEST OFFICERS

LONDON, July 27.—Which profession supplies the best officers for the army? This question, put to a British drill sergeant who has had experience in an officers' training corps, produced a swift and emphatic answer.

"Actors make the best officers," he declared positively. "First of all, they know how to give the word of command, a very important consideration. They are never shy or self-conscious, and they impress the men with their personality. Give me an educated actor and I will recommend you a good officer."

"School masters make the best non-commissioned officers. Business men I have found rather difficult. They are intelligent enough, but they are not what you may call adaptable." A staff officer endorsed the sergeant's views, with qualifications. "Professions calling for the exercise of imagination and observations do, generally speaking, provide first-class officers," he said. "Two officers on trench service constantly distinguished themselves by keen observation. They were invariably the first to notice any change in the enemy's dispositions and both were Fleet street journalists."

"Natural resources rather than trained intelligence counts on active service, and, while this faculty may be possessed by men in all professions, it is more often found among journalists, barristers, and, of course, engineers whom I place in a class apart."

STREET CAR STRIKE SPREADS IN EAST

Disorder Prevails in Bronx and Threatens New York.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The trolley strike which originated in Westchester county and spread to the lines of the United Railway in the Bronx, today resulted in disorder at many points. Attempts were made to wreck the few cars which were sent out under guard.

Because police and private detectives helped the company in its efforts to run cars General Organizer William B. Fitzgerald of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employees, threatened to tie up every surface car in New York City. William Collins, another organizer, is backing up Fitzgerald in his threats and said that the strike would be extended to the subway and elevated lines if the need arose.

Automobiles filled with armed guards sped along the trolley lines today to protect the crews of the cars that were being operated. Extra police were stationed at transfer points and along main thoroughfares. At one point fifty men armed with riot sticks were held in reserve.

Uniformed employees were attacked by strike sympathizers when they appeared at the West Farm a barn to go to work. The police under inspector Walsh charged the strikers and their friends every time they gathered in groups but the unionists succeeded in maintaining a guard in every street leading to the barn.

As one car passed under the subway structure at 174th street and Southern Boulevard it was charged by a mob that tried to pull off the motorman and conductor. The police reserve hurriedly summoned beat members of the mob with their clubs and the car finally proceeded.

A cafe in Plainfield, New Jersey, has installed a unique system for the convenience of its diners. Whether the plan will eventually be welcomed by the dining public has still to be proved, but it has the merits of ingenuity and novelty. In this enterprising cafe is connected directly with the kitchen and the head chef by means of a telephone. The fastidious diner, instead of trusting the fine points of his order to a mere waiter, tells them directly into the ear of the chef. Thus he can have his steak cooked to the exact turn he likes, and get exactly the proper number of drops of seasoning in the sauces.

BECAUSE OF BROWN

By CATMARINE CRANMER.

The most confirmed case of blues will fly in the face of a sunny spring morning, especially when the sufferer is a pretty girl of twenty.

Dorothy swung along over the smooth slopes, stooping often to gather wood violets or to listen to the singing of the birds.

"It's too lovely a world to be unhappy in," she murmured. A squirrel gave a harsh and saucy bark. "That's right, little fellow," retorted Dorothy, seating herself on a park bench; "just scold when things don't suit you. I'm going to scold, too, and give mother and daddy to understand that I don't care how blue John Mowbray's blood is or how big his bank account or how good his chances to become governor."

Suddenly the chorus of birds ended in a quivering chit-chat. Dorothy looked about and saw a full-grown black bear leisurely sauntering toward her. She sprang from her seat and ran for the nearest roadway.

She looked back once and saw the bear galloping toward her, but she did not see two park laborers bearing down on him. Neither did she see a lone young golfer strolling cityward until she rushed directly into him. The force of their collision sent the young man's glasses flying and they broke into bits.

"The devil!" he muttered. "Oh, I'm sorry," she gasped, "but it's really coming right after me."

"What's coming? The devil?" "No, you stupid; the bear!" Dorothy's high-wrought tension almost snapped and the tears hung on her lashes. Seeing no bear or other cause for her agitation, the young man looked puzzled, but the next instant perplexity gave way to a riotous smile. Down the road came the two park laborers with the captive bear. Dorothy quickly snatched a bill from her purse and flung it at the astonished young man.

"There! Pay for your old glasses and stop laughing at me!" She fled behind the shrubbery and after her went the young man.

"I say!" he stammered, as he reached her side and trotted along with her. "I'm sorry I was nasty about the glasses, and you must take this back."

His laugh was too infectious to be resisted, and Dorothy laughed, too. They slowed up as they reached the seat she had vacated and dropped into it. Between bursts of laughter, she explained that when the bear had frightened her it was galloping toward her, with never a keeper in sight.

"If I hadn't already been wrought up, maybe it wouldn't have frightened me so." Then she surprised him by suddenly asking: "If somebody tried to make you marry a woman twice as old as you just because she was rich and influential, what would you do?"

"I'm afraid I should decline." "But because I'm young and silly and want to stay that way, daddy won't take me seriously when I decline; so I'm going to run away."

"Oh, don't do that," he pleaded. "Why not head off the old man by marrying a young one?"

"Well, I'm sure I don't want to marry anybody just now," plaintively. A moment later she stamped her small foot defiantly. "And daddy needn't try to thrust me upon old John Mowbray."

"John Mowbray!" exclaimed the young man. Dorothy clasped her hand over her mouth and fled.

All day Dorothy avoided her parents because of the scene at breakfast following their announcement that they had invited John Mowbray and his widowed sister and her children to an informal dinner that evening. They also openly admitted that they had hopes of having John Mowbray for a son-in-law and had reason to believe that he also had such an ambition.

His precipitate mention of the plans caused Dorothy to begin at once to find excuse for despising her father's professional friend, whom she had hitherto regarded with polite indifference. She passed an uncomfortable day, and as the dinner hour approached she mentally pictured their guests as a tiresome lot, although she hadn't even inquired about their number, their age or their sex.

In a simple dinner gown of white net with a blue girdle, with her blonde hair softly knotted at the back and with her blue eyes deeply serious, she entered the living room from the rear just as her mother was greeting the arriving guests. First, her mother presented her to Mrs. Elwood, a woman of 60; then came Miss Elsie Elwood, in her early teens, and then from the hall entered John Mowbray and Dorothy's father and with them came the young man whose glasses she had shivered that morning in the park.

"My nephew, Jack Elwood, Miss Dorothy," said John Mowbray, and the embarrassment of the young people was happily unnoticed.

When John Mowbray became governor that fall, Dorothy's father was appointed as being him as a son-in-law and rewarded for the political aid given him by seeing Dorothy, as the wife of his favorite nephew, preside as the mistress of the governor's mansion. But, except themselves, nobody ever knew why the locket that Dorothy gave Jack on their wedding day had a tiny black bear enameled on one side of it. FRONTIER DAYS' SHOW STARTS AT CHEYENNE CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 27.—About 60,000 persons are here for the opening of the twentieth annual frontier days celebration which will be the biggest show of the sort ever held. It will last four days.

Fifty thousand extra incandescent lights have been strung along the streets. Tonight two thousand decorated automobiles will parade. Almost every rough rider, steer roper, bulldogger, relay rider and other wild western performer of note between the Mexican time and Calgary to participate in the world's championship contests which will take place during the four-day celebration.

Notable among the riders will be Harry Walters, who won the championship here last year, and Dutch Heiler, who won the riding contest at the Sioux City round up recently. Among the ropers will be the Weir boys of New Mexico, the best all-round rope artists in the business, and William Murrah, also of New Mexico, who won the championship two years ago and has been a runner-up in every contest for several years.

The prizes in the championship events this year will be the same as last year, except in the women's relay race, the purse for which has been increased from $800 to $1,000. The purse in the rough riding contest will be $1,500, a $500 saddle will accompany the money going to the winner, and there will be $600 worth of other physical prizes. The purse for the steer roping contest will be $1,000; that for the men's relay $800, and that for the bulldogging $500.

The Wyoming National Guard, mobilized at Camp Kendrick and which probably will be here when Frontier Days is held, will provide military features for the program.

The bureau of fisheries, department of commerce, has equipped and manned six cars to be used exclusively for transporting young fish for the stocking of streams throughout the United States. Each car contains 140 refrigerated cans, and each can contains 200 fish, or an average length of two inches. A purification system operated by a pump is enclosed in the front of each car, and is connected with each can by a system of rubber pipes. The water is thus constantly aerated, and the fish live in the same water for a week. In the top of the car are berths, just as in a regular sleeping car except that they are all uppers. The government formerly shipped fish to streams by express. The present method will insure the delivery of the fish to their destination in good condition, whereas, in the former method, a great many died in transit.

When Moving Rugs.

In packing rugs, when moving, sprinkle with powdered alum and fold a few moth balls in when rolling them. Then, if not used, immediately, as is sometimes the case, there is no danger of their being destroyed by pests.

BULL MOOSERS TO HOLD SECOND MEET

COLUMBUS, July 27.—Randolph Walton, local attorney and Bull Mooser, is authority for the claim that the second Progressive national convention, to be held at Chicago, on August 5, will be just as enthusiastic as the former one and that the progressives will make a fight for a national ticket. Walton was a stenographer in the office of Governor George K. Nash, now deceased.

"Mr. Perkins will find it is not so easy to merge political parties as to merge International Harvester concerns," declared Walton. "Men of the caliber of which most of the progressives have proven they cannot be hoodwinked by leaders who desert the cause. They won't stand for it. Ohio progressives will vote as they see fit in the state and county."

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSE COMPLEXION

say we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

THE REASON WHY.

"BUT WHY," I heard a little girl ask her mother the other day, and I was greatly surprised and disappointed when I heard her mother say, "Oh, dear, because." And then the child was spanked because she was naughty when she didn't understand why she should have to do a certain thing. If mothers would only explain their motives, their reasons for something they wish done, instead of expecting unquestioning obedience on the part of the child, there would be less antagonism between mother and child. A good explanation of the situation was given by a mother in the Monitor, which I found yesterday.

"When I was about five years old," she writes, "I desired very much to go out driving one day with my aunt and several friends of her. I was told that I could not go, and it was a bitter disappointment to me. Moreover, I could not think what the reason was; I often went to drive, the circumstances on this day were, so far as I could see, no different than usual, and there was plenty of room for me to go without crowding anyone. However, my pretensions were of no avail, and I hid myself and my grief behind the door. When I had heard the sounds of the gay departure and all was again quiet, I came out from my retreat, confronted my mother, stamped my foot and cried between my sobs, 'Now will you tell me why I could not go?'"

"Needless to say, my question was not answered; I was speedily removed to an upper chamber and put to bed, where I had plenty of time to repent of my display of anger but where I still went on wondering why I was forbidden to go. To this day, I have never found out what my mother's reason was, and I still want to know. I asked mother not long ago, but she could not remember.

"You see, I began rather early to do my own thinking, and this continued through my girlhood and young womanhood—is continuing still, for that matter. I was always irritated by not having the reason for things I was bidden to do. I believe I could have obeyed more quickly and more willingly if I had just been wisely reasoned with. Reasons can be put in forms that children can understand, or, if they cannot—the chances are that they are not good reasons. This is why I began very early to talk to my children, to reason with and explain things to them, if they do not understand at once, they soon come to do so, and I believe that this discussing things together has made us better comrades. After all, mothers are not so all-wise that they invariably know better than their children; more and more I am confronted with problems which my children see more clearly and justly than I and can do much to help me in solving."

GIRL ESCAPES, LOVER, CRAZED, IS DROWNED

VALPARAISO, Ind., July 27 — Miss Lillian Starrett of Dowagiac, Mich., went boat riding on Sauer's lake last night with her sweetheart Frank Butterfield. Butterfield went suddenly insane and gathering Miss Starrett into his arms declared that they would die together in the lake. He overturned the boat, prevented her from holding to it, dragged her beneath the surface with him and she was unconscious when a man, summoned by her screams before she sank reached and rescued her. Butterfield was drowned.

PRESIDENTIAL FAREWELLS.

Two of our presidents have delivered farewell addresses. Under date of Sept. 17, 1798, Washington issued a farewell address in anticipation of his retirement the following March. It was chiefly the work of Washington and Hamilton, though portions of it were taken from a draft prepared by Madison at Washington's request when the latter had expected to retire at the end of his first term. A farewell address was also issued by President Andrew Jackson on March 8, 1837, the last day of his official life.—Exchange.

DATES OVER THE OCEAN

The raising of dates is the greatest industry in the Euphrates Valley. Autumn is a feverish time among the date merchants. Then the dates are ripe and are loaded on the ocean steamers at Busreh and the boats race down the Persian Gulf across the Indian ocean, up the Red Sea, along the Mediterranean and across the Atlantic, to be the first to arrive with the delicious fruit. Once I sailed directly from Busreh to New York on one of the annual date steamers, a journey of 42 days.—Christian Herald.

SOUND WAVES

A sound waves consists of an alternate compression and refraction of the air. A singular result of this was noted after a great powder explosion at Erith, England, in 1864. The leaded glass windows of a church several miles away were all strongly bent inward on all sides of the church. The explanation was given in these words: "The sound wave on reaching the church separated right and left, and for a moment the edifice was clanked by girdle of intensely compressed air, which forced all its windows inward. The subsequent dilation of the air was insufficient to force the bent panes back into shape.—Exchange

COLUMBUS — Declaring that charges of illegal voting at Cincinnati made to local federal authorities are "mostly mythical," Federal District Attorney Bolin announced that nothing will be done at present. He said, however, that if evidence is produced tending to prove that Cincinnati politicians committed frauds federal inspectors will make an investigation.

MARRYING A BUTTERFLY

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ralph Enjoys a Trip to the Woods—His Wife Isn't With Him.

ETHEL AND RALPH stood on the front porch of Mrs. Tellson's house in the golden October sunshine, looking off over the fields edged with a border of wine-colored blackberry bushes interspersed with bright patches of golden rod. The distant woods stretched like rich tapestry against the horizon. Ralph drew in deep breaths of the spicy air.

"Isn't this great?" he asked, looking at Ethel.

"Yes, I wish I had a dress the color of that sky," Ralph's answering smile was cynical, but she did not notice it. He looked down at her pale blue slippers and dainty lace-trimmed negligee.

"Have you anything sensible to put on; anything that you could go to the woods in?" he asked, eyeing her critically.

"Sensible! What do you mean? Of course I have something besides a morning dress," she answered aloofly, for his voice had been unsympathetic.

"I should like to go down to the woods and see if there are any nuts to be had, but it is no pleasure to go if you must wear white kid shoes and a handsome traveling suit that must be guarded against accident," Ralph looked across the fields with eyes alight with appreciation.

"No, I have no ground gripper shoes, if that is what you mean, nor any khaki camping suit." The tone of disgust with which she mentioned these articles of dress showed that they found scant favor in her eyes. "I think dress should be so appropriate at all times that after it is once on, no more thought need be given to it. That is a test of its suitability," Ethel turned up her nose.

"Those dowdy women on the way yesterday seemed utterly oblivious of their clothes and I suppose you think therefore that their dress was appropriate." The disdain in her voice irritated him.

"Those women never thought of their clothes; they had something more important to think about. They had the care of children and home on their minds. At any rate they can put their fingers on something they have done in their life, even if they have not been great ornaments to society." Ralph's tone was bitter.

"Meaning, I suppose, that I cannot," retorted Ethel.

"Can you? I leave it to you." Ralph fixed his eyes on his wife's face.

"The time was when you would have said I was of some use, and I knew as much then as I do now." Ethel fingered her engagement ring.

"I did not," was Ralph's laconic answer. A silence fell between them. Finally Ralph said: Are you going to the woods with me?"

"No, I will not spoil your enjoyment by going in clothes that are not sensible." With this parting shot Ethel turned into the house. Ralph sauntered down the walk and off across the fields, whistling a merry tune. The sweet autumn odors floated up from the dying leaves under the trees as he had done when a boy.

"I am glad she refused to come. As long as we have no pleasures in common, I may as well get all I can by myself," he reflected bitterly. "And she certainly spoils every trip

Ethel, left to herself, wandered discontentedly around the house and wished she had accepted the invitation of Mrs. Telson to accompany them to church.

"Ralph might have stayed and helped me pass the dull hours," was her reproachful thought. "It is shameful the way he respects me." (To be continued.)

OHIO ROADS HIT UP FOR MILLION MORE

State Examiners Report Railways Have Under-Reported Earnings.

COLUMBUS, O., July 27.—More than a million dollars in taxes are to be demanded by the state tax commission from the railways of the state as a result of an investigation now nearly completed. The taxes to be demanded will be the 4 per cent on earnings of the systems on intrastate business.

Examiners who have been working on the books of the large lines report that during the years from 1911 to the present, the railways have not reported accurately the total of money earned by the lines in the state and that many millions of earnings of that sort have been uncovered by the examiners.

There has been filed the report of the examiners charging that in reporting intrastate earnings the Erie railway under-reported its Ohio business by $6,486,722; the Baltimore & Ohio by $3,381,121, and the New York Central lines by $3,939,109.

This is more than $24,000,000 and the 4 per cent tax of the state would mean a payment of back taxes of approximately one million dollars on the present findings. There are still other railroad lines to be examined and the total of taxes claimed indicate, are well above the million mark.

The hearings are to be started shortly and the railways will contest the correctness of the findings of the expert examiner who has done the work for the state.

There are strong indications the railway managers will contest strongly the payment of so large a sum in addition to what they have paid in each of the years.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—"The sweetest girl in Pennsylvania," so-called by Governor Brumbaugh, Miss Elizabeth Loudon Kolt, has become engaged to Ralph Alvin Gibbs. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and is the son of a wealthy manufacturer of Canton, Ohio. Gibbs has the distinction of being engaged to "the prettiest girl in the state," as Miss Kolt has been oftentimes described in the newspapers of the state.

OHIO MANUFACTURES AS SHOWN BY 1914 REPORTS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.—A preliminary statement of the general results of the census of manufactures for the state of Ohio has been issued by Director Sam. L. Rogers of the bureau of the census, department of commerce. It consists of a summary comparing the figures for 1909 and 1914, by totals, prepared under the direction of Mr. William M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures.

The figures are preliminary and subject to such change and correction as may be found necessary from a further examination of the original reports.

The census of 1914, like that of 1909, with reference to manufactures, excluded the hand trades, the building trades, and the neighborhood industries, and took account only of establishments conducted under the factory system. In the last census, also, as in that for 1909, statistics were not collected for establishments having products for the census year valued at less than $500, except that reports were taken for establishments idle during a portion of the census year, or which began operation during that year, and whose products for such reason were valued at less than $500.

The word "establishment" as used in the census reports may mean more than one mill or plant, provided they are owned or controlled and operated by a single individual, partnership, corporation, or other owner or operator, and are located in the same town or city.

The reports were taken for the calendar year ending December 31, 1914, wherever the system of book-keeping permitted figures for that period to be secured, but when the fiscal year of an establishment differed from the calendar year a report was obtained for the operations of that establishment for its fiscal year falling most largely within the calendar year 1914.

Percentages of Increase. The population of Ohio at the census of 1910 was 4,767,121, and it is estimated that it was 5,027,000 on July 1, 1914.

The summary shows an increase at the census of 1914 as compared with that for 1909 with the exception of the number of proprietors and firm members, which shows a slight decrease. In the order of their importance from a percentage standpoint, the increases for the several items rank as follows: Salaries, 45.9 per cent; salaried employees, 24.9 per cent; wages, 29.9 per cent; capital, 29 per cent; primary horsepower, 26.5 per cent; value added by manufacture, 24.2 per cent; value of products, 24 per cent; materials, 23.8 per cent; wage earners, 14.3 per cent; and number of establishments, 3.4 per cent.

Capital Invested. The capital invested, as reported in 1914, was $1,677,552,000, a gain of $376,819,000, or 23 per cent, over $1,300,733,000 in 1909. The average capital per establishment was approximately $107,000 in 1914 and $86,000 in 1909. In this connection it should be stated that the inquiry contained in the census schedule calls for the total amount of capital, both owned and borrowed, invested in the business, but excludes the value of rented property, plant, or equipment which was employed in the conduct of manufacturing enterprises. In the final bulletin and reports the rental paid for such property will be shown separately.

Cost of Materials. The cost of materials used was $1,020,782,000 in 1914, as against $834,202,000 in 1909, an increase of $186,580,000, or 23.8 per cent. The average cost of materials per establishment was approximately $65,000 in 1914 and $54,000 in 1909. In addition to the component materials which enter into the products of the establishment for the census year, there are included the cost of fuel, mill supplies, and rent of power and heat. The cost of materials, however, does not include unused materials and supplies bought either for speculation or for use during a subsequent period.

The census inquiry does not include amounts paid for miscellaneous expenses, such as rent of offices, royalties, insurance, ordinary repairs, advertising, traveling expenses, or allowance for depreciation.

Value of Products. The value of products was $1,782,808,000 in 1914 and $1,437,935,000 in 1909, the increase being $344,872,000, or 24 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $114,000 in 1914 and $95,000 in 1909.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include amounts received for work done on materials furnished by others.

Value Added by Manufacture. The value added by manufacture represents the difference between the cost of materials used and the value of the products manufactured from them. The value added by manufacture was $762,026,000 in 1914, and $613,734,000 in 1909, the increase being $148,292,000, or 24.2 per cent. The value added by manufacture formed 42.7 per cent of the total value of products both in 1914 and 1909.

Salaries and Wages. The salaries and wages amounted to $424,198,000 in 1914 and to $317,597,000 in 1909, the increase being $106,592,000, or 33.6 per cent. The number of salaried employees was 82,748 in 1914, as compared with 61,351 in 1909, making an increase of 21,397, or 34.9 per cent.

The average number of wage earners was 510,485 in 1914 and 446,544 in 1909, the increase being 63,941, or 14.3 per cent.

The maximum number of wage earners 534,537 for 1914 were employed during March, while the maximum number (480,405) for 1909 were employed during December. The minimum number of wage earners (476,841) for 1914 were employed during December and the minimum number (414,278) for 1909 were employed during January.

ELECTRIC STEEL PRODUCTION. Electric steel appears to be making much progress in Germany. A report for 1914 shows the total production of crucible and electric steel to have been 184,400 tons and the electric product was nearly 90,000 tons—only 8500 less than the output of crucible steel. And more electric furnaces were expected. Of the 20 plants producing electric steel eight were making high-grade material to supplant crucible steel and 12 employed the electric furnace to melt ferro-manganese. The induction furnace was most used of the various types.—Exchange.

20 SIGN PETITION TO HANG PASTORS

Southern Business Men Led Astray by Document They Didn't Read.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 27.—

To demonstrate the truth of his contention that the average business man is so compliant he will sign almost any petition put before him in evident good faith, one of the most prominent business men of Birmingham, Ala., circulated among thirty leading business men of that city a petition that the city council appoint a committee to hang every minister of the gospel in the town, and twenty signatures were promptly attached.

The petition started by asking the city council to adopt an ordinance excusing the ministers from paying a sanitary tax. The document was couched in legal language and "whereas" and "wherefore" until the final paragraph was reached when it was shown that, in order to make payment of the tax unnecessary, the ministers would have to be hanged.

After the job on the signers, many of whom are conservative, influential bankers, manufacturers and merchants, became generally known, some of them ran to cover by declaring they knew all along it was a joke. But others frankly admitted they did not read the document, as they should have done, before signing it.

HIS BACKACHE GONE.

Just how dangerous a backache, sore muscles, aching joints or rheumatic pains may be is sometimes realized only when life insurance is refused on account of kidney trouble. Joseph G. Wolf of Green Bay, Wis., writes: "Foley Kidney Pills relieved me of a severe backache that had bothered me for several months." Take Foley Kidney Pills for weak lame back and weary sleepless nights. UNION CHAPEL.

The second annual meeting of the Lafayette, Harrod, West Minister, Union Chapel and Bethlehem Christian churches will be held the second Sunday in August, August 13, at the Lafayette park. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hedges and daughters, Mary and Mildred, and Clarence Rydman were guests of Walter Klingler's, of Harrod, Tuesday evening.

Misses Mary Hedges and Hazel Mowery spent Sunday with Misses Wilma and Elizabeth Mowery.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Griffiths visited at Owen Griffith's, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hedges and daughter Mildred, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hedges, of Liberty Chapel, Sunday.

Jacob Early and Jacob Vore, of near Pleasant View, were business callers at Jacob Staver's Tuesday afternoon.

A great inconvenience is being caused for tourists when they see the "Detour bridge out," sign at the corner of the Lafayette and Sandusky highways. There is an arrow pointing south on the detour sign and since there is no road south many people get back to the stone quarry. The bridge was washed out during the storm last week, but it has been repaired enough to cross with an automobile. It is expected that a new bridge will be made soon.

MAYSVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Carman and daughter Mary, Clint Wingardner and daughter, Lucile, spent Sunday with Mrs. Harrison Carman.

Charles Cochensparger, wife and daughter Gail, Mrs. Harley Heath and children spent Saturday with Curtis Cochensparger and wife at Upper Sandusky.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvel Wilson, of Lafayette, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson and daughter Marcene, Mrs. Charles Wilson and son Arthur, spent Sunday with J. A. Wilson and family.

Earl Hunley, wife and son Robert, spent Sunday with Mrs. Nancy Brocous and family.

Faurot Opera House, Thursday and Friday, Madame Petrova in "The Scarlet Woman."

Amusements

FAUROT PICTURES.

"The Scarlet Woman," a five-part Metro wonderplay with Mme. Petrova in the stellar role, will be the production shown at the Faurot opera house today and tomorrow. In this sensational feature, Mme. Petrova, famous for her brilliant interpretation of difficult emotional roles, is seen at her best. She has a strong supporting cast, including Arthur Hoops, the well known leading man; Edward Martindell, Eugene O'Brien, Frances Gordon and other prominent artists.

"The Scarlet Woman" was written especially for Mme. Petrova by Aaron Hoffman, the author of all her latest successes. The feature was directed by Edward Lawrence, and no expense was spared to make it an artistic and complete success in every particular. There are scores of big scenes, including many interesting situations photographed in a famous Broadway hotel. More than one hundred persons appear in these scenes, which are absolutely true to New York cafe life. Mary Dale, the daughter of Alan Dale, the famous dramatic critic, makes her debut in motion pictures in this scene, playing small role.

Also Ecema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles. Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising improvement is made so quickly that it seems almost miraculous.

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert of Titusville, Pa., vanish before the marvellous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes: "For twenty years I suffered with bleeding and itching piles; at times I was confined to the house for more than a month. Two years ago I began using San Cura Ointment and one 50c jar made a firm and permanent cure. I have not been troubled since."

San Cura Ointment is guaranteed by Minor M. Keltner, who is the agent in Lima, to help any of the above named diseases or money back. It relieves pain from burns, cuts and bruises, draws out the poison, and often heals in a short time. 25c and 50c a jar at Minor M. Keltner's.

GOOD BABY SOAP. San Cura Soap is a healing and antiseptic soap; just the soothing kind that baby needs. It frees the pore from impurities and prevents rashes and other skin diseases. Fine for any one's skin; banishes blackheads and pimples; clears the complexion. 25c a cake at Minor M. Keltner's Enterprise Drug Store.

DOES SLOAN'S LINIMENT HELP RHEUMATISM?

Ask the man who uses it, he knows. "To think I suffered all these years when one 25 cent bottle of Sloan's Liniment cured me," writes one grateful user. If you have rheumatism or suffer from Neuralgia, Backache, Soreness and Stiffness, don't put off getting a bottle of Sloan's. It will give you such welcome relief. It warms and soothes the sore, stiff painful places and you feel so much better. Buy it at any Drug Store, only 25 cents.

DR. W. H. BEGG DIES AT COLUMBUS GROVE

COLUMBUS GROVE, O., July 27.—Funeral services for Dr. William H. Beggs, who died at his home on north High street yesterday, will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family residence. Dr. Beggs was a member of the Presbyterian church his entire life and clergy from this denomination will conduct the services. Interment will be at Truro.

For some years Dr. Beggs served as a member of the state hospital board of Toledo, having been appointed by Governor Nash. He was a member of the board of education for years and was a politician of state-wide reputation in Republican circles.

He has practiced in Columbus Grove for 25 years, starting here when quite young, after finishing his college work. The widow and three children survive. The are Mrs. Ethel Beggs Crawford, wife of Martyn Crawford of Columbus Grove; Russell Beggs of Cleveland and Harold Beggs, student, at home.

Dr. Beggs is a nephew of Hon. John Beggs of Columbus Grove, president of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture.

The order of things was changed at the third day's meet of the Ohio Racing circuit at the Lima Driving park, yesterday, when two of the events were won in three heats instead of five. Up to yesterday it had taken five heats to decide winners.

Solomon Boy won the first event of the day entailing his owner to a purse of $500. He stopped the 2:12 pace in fact time, crossing the wire in 2:09 1-4 in the first heat; 2:09 1-2 in the second, and 2:08 1-4 in the third heat.

Black Ball took second money in this event and pushed the winner hard in the first two heats. Sunburn Pointer came from behind in the third heat and by finishing second took third money.

The second event on the program, the 2:20 trot, for a purse of $1,000 was won by Tommy Todd in three straight heats. The drivers competed in this race for the El Verso stake. Ormondo Rose finished second in the money and Sister Strong third.

The winner of the event had little trouble holding the lead in the three heats of the race. As there was little competition in the field for the first position in the event, the interest of the race centering in second and third places.

Gum Drop with Whitehead won first money in the 2:16 trot for a stake of $100, when he came in under the wire at the head of the wagers in the fifth heat. This was the only heat or the race that he won.

Lyon P., who looks to be the winner of the event by reason of winning the first two heats, was distanced in the third heat, when his driver, Palin, let him have his head and seemed to make no attempt to settle him down. Summaries:

Alexander Leads National League in Effective Pitching.

GROVER ALEXANDER
OF INFL. FILM SERVICE
Grover Alexander of the Phillies, is the National league's most effective pitcher. Figures prove that, at present, he is the hardest man in the league for a batter to face. He has worked 177 innings, during which time only thirty-two (32) earned runs have been scored off his twirling, giving him an average of 1.63 runs per game. Mammoux of the Pirates, however, is a close second.

SHORT SPORT

Matty, came, saw and conquered. But fandum at the Polo grounds was rooting for the old master to trim his ex-boss, John McGraw.

The Braves and Cubs are fighting all the way. It was the Braves' turn yesterday. Each team made two hits but the Braves got both of theirs in the eighth for the lone tally of the game.

The Yankees slid a little more. The White Sox applied the white-wash brush.
The Red Sox were better hitters than the Indians and pulled up with in half a game of the Yankees.

One run in two games was all the Athletics could get in the clashes with the Browns.

The Cardinals were not easy for the leading Dodgers. Fifty-fifty was the result.

The Pirates and Phillies also split. Even Alexander won as usual.

The Tickers are still in the hunt. Two hits and an error gave them the game in the tenth even though the mighty Johnson hurled for the Nationals.

Cobb Has Big Job On Hand

NEW YORK, July 27.—Ty Cobb is confronted with the mightiest task of his career in his attempts to win the 1916 batting' championship of the American League. The chances seem to be against him for the first time since he flashed into view as a clotting phenom.

In most of the other years, Ty led the parade at this time of the summer. Ty had a little "velvet" so to speak. But he hasn't any now. In the bygone days he could fall into a short slump and continue to rule, even though his margin dwindled in the meantime. But now he is something close to 40 points behind the leading Speaker—a terrible gap. But what counts largest against Ty is the fact that he must overhaul two men to reach the crest—Speaker and Jackson. Both are thundering along. In other years Ty had only one real rival after mid-season. All that was necessary to win the championship was for him to beat out that one man. Now he must beat two. It's much easier, you know, to win a two horse race than it is to win in a three-entry field.

Cobb Must Not Slump
Speaker may slump, so may Jackson. But it is unlikely that both will do any violent slumping. But even if they should, isn't it just as likely that Ty will slip too? If either Jackson or Speaker bump into a batting vacuum they have enough "velvet" to protect them for a reasonable time from being overtaken by Ty. But the frey Georgian must race at breakneck speed from now on until the finish line is crossed. He dare not slump. If he does his chances of leading the American League for the tenth successive year will go glimmering.

And even should he slip along at a whirlwind rate, isn't it just as possible for either Jackson or Speaker—or both—to meet the challenge, match Cobb hit for hit, and thus, with the lead they now have, beat him to the crown.

Unless Cobb hits from now on at the most terrific clip in his career, it seems unlikely that the official returns will show him elected to the championships office for the tenth successive time, unless Speaker and Jackson sked ingloriously.

GAME OF ANIMALS.
This is a version of blind man's bluff. All the players except the blind man station themselves in different parts of the room. The blindfolded player then feels his way round the room until he touches somebody. The player who is touched must immediately give an imitation of the noise made by some animal—a donkey, cat, dog, cow, pig, etc.—repeating it three times, if requested. The blind man must guess the name of his prisoner by the voice. If he becomes blind man; if unsuccessful, the blind man must release his prisoner and try again.

WALL ST. MARKET
SHOWS BETTER TONE

NEW YORK, July 27.—After showing weakness at the opening today when losses from fractions to over point were sustained, the stock market developed a better tone, with advances ranging from fractions to two points. Industrial Alcohol started at a point lower than the previous annual report to the Federal Reserve bank. Mexican Petroleum advanced after falling a point to 96 1/2, recovered the loss before the end of the first 15 minutes. Crucible Steel declined 1/2 lower to 68 1/2, and then rose 68. Union Pacific opened 1/2 lower at 135 1/2, but quickly recovered the loss. Marine preferred after starting 1/2 lower rose a point to 95 1/2. The Railway and copper stocks acted in the same manner, those stocks sustaining fractional losses at the opening and then recovering the loss before the end of the first 15 minutes.

As the first quarter hour ended the entire list hardened with nearly all the leaders ranging above yesterday's close.

Aggressive selling by the trading elements forced the prices off sharply in the late forenoon. Much attention was paid to the railway situation causing the trunk lines to weaken. Reading declined a point to 93 1/2 and fractional losses were recorded in New York Central, Erie, and Union Pacific. U. S. Steel moved within a narrow range, declining from 86 1/2 to 85 1/2. Industrial Alcohol fell from 106 1/4 to 104 1/4 and Marine preferred from 85 1/2 to 84 1/2. American Beet Sugar declined 1/4 to 53 1/2. Pressed Steel a point to 47, American Can 1/2 to 52 1/2, and Third Avenue a point to 62. The coppers generally sustained fractional losses, Anaconda declining at 77 1/2 against 78 1/2 yesterday. Renewed pressure was noted from the bear element outside of the exchange.
